

NO Showdown Grace Slick's Perfect Match

"I think there are many times when it would be most efficient to use nuclear weapons. However, the public opinion in this country and throughout the world throw up their hands in horror when you mention nuclear weapons, just because of the propaganda that's been fed to them." General Curtis LeMay USAF

Speaking of propaganda, way too many people have been led to believe that nuclear war could actually be a good thing. It would certainly rid the world of our Russian and Chinese enemies. All debts reset to zero. The deaths of billions of useless eaters being the icing on their cake. After waiting a few years for the dust to settle and the bodies to decay, the wealthy and powerful expect to emerge from their deep underground bunkers, to find a new world, ready for them to do whatever they want with.

Perhaps that would be true if nuclear bombs were all we had to worry about. Most big cities will be completely destroyed by the blasts. Monster fires ignited by Grace Slick's "Perfect Match"* would consume all the petroleum stored in above ground tanks. Remember Iraq's oil fires, now, just imagine that everywhere. What's left of Earth's beautiful forests would burn until atmospheric oxygen drops below the level necessary to sustain combustion.

The bunker crowd would emerge to find that their new world now has a completely different atmosphere. Instead of 21% oxygen, it will be around 8-10% after the fires are done. Imagine Algore's horror when he emerges to find CO2 levels around 10-15%. There will be very little life left on this planet, 99% of oxygen breathing animals gone. Oceans completely dead, not a fish to be found anywhere. Plants that manage to survive the fires and a much hotter atmosphere will grow like crazy thanks to all that extra CO2. Good for them. Perhaps in a million years, evolved, intelligent plants will build civilizations and travel to the stars.

If all that isn't grim enough, within a month, any nuclear power plants that didn't get hit by a bomb, would begin melting down. With no power from the electric grid, their cooling systems will fail. Yes, they have backups, for 30 days or less, that is if their control systems survive EMP. Rense.com readers know the truth about Fukushima. Backups immediately failed. Multiply that by 500!

Any life forms that do manage to survive the changed atmosphere and massive radiation will evolve very quickly. Evolution is partly driven by genetic mutations caused by X and Gamma ray collisions with chromosomes. Good mutations survive and reproduce, bad mutations don't. This is what's been happening in the exclusion zone around Chernobyl. Multiply that by a thousand. Would Planet Earth be completely dead? NO, but what takes over here will be completely different from what came before. Yeah, nuclear war is survivable, but not by us.

After a little nudging from ET, Presidents Gorbachev and Regan appeared to understand this, at least to the degree that they started doing something about it. Unfortunately, today's leaders have forgotten or they actually believe nuclear wars can be limited and if not, full scale nuclear war is survivable by the side with the most nukes. As Jeff has pointed out on the radio, there are way too many flash points where a "limited" nuclear war could erupt at any time.

Yes, it's disturbing and you really don't want to think about it, but if you actually care about our little water planet, please rise up and spread this information far and wide. There is truly nothing more important, all our other little issues pale by comparison.

Presidents Trump, Putin and Xi; do you really want to see your children dead, your elegant towers transformed into twisted, molten, radioactive steel and your mega fortunes worth nothing? This is the reality and it's no longer a chess game. Please, ask your scientists and listen to what they say. Ask your citizens, American, Russian and Chinese will say "No Showdown." Hopefully, someone will pass this on to all 3 of you before it's too freakin' late. If all this hasn't convinced you, just listen to Grace's prophetic song. Nothing more important!

God, ET, are you listening? Please give these big guys a little nudge, so they'll do their jobs and take up where Gorby and Ronnie left off. Thank You Everyone!

*Excerpt from "Showdown" on the album "Nuclear Furniture"

Lyrics and Music by Grace Slick 1984

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HoEkbi3pA50>

"Now both sides are gone
No funerals
No priests
No crowds singing songs
No heroes in the streets

Both sides were wrong
Just too stubborn to teach
And it was just too long
Before enough people had the courage to speak
And say

No showdown
No showdown
No showdown

They walk with their arms away from their sides
Will the ones who are left
Still say they are right?"