1928 This is looking north up the Cahuenga Pass, towards the San Fernando Valley. Today, this is the site of the very busy Hollywood Freeway.

1904 One of Hollywood's most popular and early hotels was the Hollywood Hotel. Located on the northwest corner of Hollywood Blvd. & Highland Ave. the hotel played host to many Hollywood Stars, including Rudolph Valentino. The hotel was demolished in 1956. Today, it is the site of the popular tourist attraction "Hollywood & Highland".

This is a 1914 photo of a car being driven up Laurel Canyon. One of the earliest developments, in the canyon, was known as Bungalowland. However, because of the long and steep drive up into the canyon, it was not successful. Today, Laurel Canyon is a very popular residential neighborhood.

1923 Looking east on Hollywood Blvd. towards Cahuenga Ave.

American Legion Post #43 owned and operated the Hollywood Legion Stadium on El Centro Ave. The stadium hosted years of boxing matches that were attended by some of Hollywood's most popular celebrities. Here are boxing fan in front of the stadium in 1940.

hollywoodphotographs.com is the largest collection of vintage Hollywood photos. All the photos on the website are available for purchase. We offer both digital images as well as actual photograph prints.
