

Chemtrailing May Be Re-Terraforming by an Alien Species

Millions of years ago, when our Earth was still very warm and had an anaerobic atmosphere, an air without oxygen, life in that era allegedly lived on sulfates, as our aerobic plants and organisms today live on oxygen instead.

Then blue-green algae appeared and slowly converted our atmosphere to an aerobic one, using mainly oxygen for its metabolic processes. (See references, at end of article).

We have heard a lot of scientific speculation, as to how science may one day "terraform", that is, convert into a semblance of earth-like conditions, planets like Mars and Venus, to make them fit for human life as we know it.

These postulated processes would include seeding their planetary atmospheres with sprayed aerosols containing bacteria, algae, various chemicals, among other substances, all intended to alter their chemistries so that earth conditions would slowly but inexorably usurp the natural processes that pertained there for millions of years.

What might happen to extant plant and animal life, if any, does not seem to concern our scientists at all : Man is the important guy here, homo sapiens sapiens, -- sapiens, from the Latin, meaning discernment, wisdom, (good) judgement, as can be seen by their intentions towards other possible species.

You can see this good judgement in action today, as Capitalist countries like the USA, UK and France, amongst others, living on the world's poor, go gung-ho with all guns blazing, into poorer ones, wantonly killing women and children to get at their natural resources, such as oil, just so their indebted economies and peoples can live off the blood-profits.

Not many people even notice chemtrails : I recently asked a friend, an educated, professional man, what he thought about the chemtrailing going on in our skies this past decade and more. He came back with a question : What's that ? I said : Those lines in the sky, that look like contrails – you know what contrails are ? Yes. Well, these look like contrails, but they just keep on persisting, spreading out, causing a general white-out ... you've never seen those, in the past, ten, oh, twelve years or so, those things that have been hanging over all our heads like some sword of doom ? No. Most folks do not even look up at the sky any more.

And there are all kinds of explanations about the why and how of chemtrailing, and all governments are keeping quiet about them and discourage speculation.

WHAT IF SOMEONE WERE RE-TERRAFORMING OUR EARTH, RIGHT BEFORE

OUR EYES ?

Right above our heads, in plain sight, powders and aerosols descending from the skies, changing our flora and our fauna by killing it off, perhaps making Earth a planet fit for some other kind of life that requires aluminum to live on ?

Or perhaps even creating new kinds of plants, using our existing flora as a basis, plants that will absorb aluminum and contain it for consumption by that new species that intends to replace us ?

Even if world governments are keeping a silence of the dead around discussion of chemtrailing and even actively denying that it even exists, that all who claim to see it are psychotics under some sort of mass-hallucination (do photographs lie ?), what would we notice, that might give the lie to governmental lying ? Would, say, attempts be proceeding to develop aluminum-resistant plants, perhaps even animals ? Yes, such developmental projects are being pushed at high speed right now, (see the references at end of this article).

Are these developments to our benefit, or to those intending to replace us ? Answer : As we and our present-day plants and animals will definitely be killed off by the aluminum, we certainly are not the beneficiaries of this. Others are.

Only if our world governments, becoming daily more intolerant towards those they are robbing of pension- and medical-benefits and even mere decent wages, acting like we are just a nuisance to some agenda of their own, are under the control of those aliens from Somewhere who are currently Alien-forming Earth, do all these phenomena we are witnessing today make sense : We are being replaced by something else, and our governments are under the control of those who are doing this and are doing it for them, not for us.

Unfortunate, but true : if we are too dumb to notice what is happening right above our heads, then we deserve to die. It is always survival of the fittest.
