

DOWN THE RABBIT HOLE

An Honest Discussion of Politics, Religion, and all Kinds of Things we are not Supposed to Talk About.
VOL 2: 30th. EDITION You are Free to Copy This Information. Sunday, March 12, 2017

A CONTINUED LOOK INTO THE KORAN

Penguin Edition, c. 1968

by Gertjan Zwiggelaar, B.A., B.Ed., EDE.

PART XXI

Today is the Son's day so let us celebrate this wonderful day when we are still enjoying time on this gloriously beautiful planet, so full of wonder and charm; of rising mountains and lowering seas. Some of us have seen a lot of this place and some of us have seen not so much; perhaps a couple of acres tucked away in a dark jungle far away. Some of us take great pleasure in expanding our parameters and reaching for the stars, others not so much and are content to read and contemplate but one book. 'Beware of people who read only one book.' Homo unius libri is an observation first jotted down apparently by Thomas Aquinas. Indeed, how can one possibly fathom what is what by only reading one book? It would be like saying, 'I have seen the world,' when you have never left your cave. In spite of the fact that the sun shines through the windows of thousands of libraries around the planet; libraries filled with marvelous tomes, and yet there are people who only read one book; the Bible, the Upanishads, Book of the Dead, the Koran, etc. There are other books thusly regarded by those who prefer to remain ignorant.

For me, reading has been a habit since I was a child and discovered books; glorious books in my parent's library and they fed that habit. Indeed, two of the best presents they gave me was a fabulous Parker fountain pen and a big, fat dictionary. Now, I do not need the dictionary quite so often anymore, in fact, I rarely have to consult them; I have about a half dozen of the things lying about in my office. My favorite is the huge Oxford edition. When I read, I have a pen in hand and mark up the book I am working in. I do not read a lot of fiction, since I write my own fabulous fictions which entertain me much better than most other fictions out there, just as I now listen to my own music, having 27 CDs worth of original content to listen to, including 15 symphonies up to 73 minutes in length! I read non fiction mostly, although Ken Follett has kept me reading in his books, but, he is an exceptional writer and writes things like, Pillars of the Earth. My own books are thick like his major novels. Indeed, my book, Hanzel Svetska is the largest book ever published by my house with over 62,000 authors on contract! A Faustian fiction in which a pirate sells his soul to the Devil.

Speaking of selling your soul to the Devil, let us return to the Koran and see what Allah is up to in the Penguin edition. He is quite the teller of tales, which I tend to think of as fiction, mostly. Good, horror fiction. 'Thus We recount to you the history of past events. A Scripture of Our own We have given you: those that reject it shall bear a heavy burden on the Day of Resurrection. They shall hear it for ever: an evil burden on the Day of Resurrection, the day when the Trumpet shall be sounded.' Page 226.

'Exalted be Allah, the True King!' Page 227. The one and only. Hence, the other kings are false kings? Does that include the Saudi kings? What about the other Arabic kings?

Before we move on to the next chapter, I just want to remind you, in case you have forgotten: ‘...the punishment of the life to come is more terrible and more lasting.’ ‘Do they not see how many generations We have destroyed before them?’ ‘Had your Lord not already fixed their term and deferred their punishment, their destruction in this life would have been certain.’ Page 228. *Allah reminds you often. Never forget, the punishment!

Who are those people who need to be punished and destroyed? YOU! the one who does not believe in the teachings of Mohammed.

However, how can you deny them? They are there for you to read in the Koran which says there is no excuse for you not knowing about them. You can believe in them, but you do not have to necessarily practice what it preaches. What I mean is, you can believe that the Koran exists, because it does. The words written therein are real and the ideas expressed are real, in the sense that you can make sense of the words. Now, the question is, do the words describe a real phenomenon, or a fictitious one, that is the question you have to ask. Is the Paradise described by Gabriel to Mohammed what Paradise actually is like? Did the Archangel Gabriel in fact talk with Mohammed? We only have his word to go by and you must admit, the Koran is a literary book, well written, albeit very repetitious, but it is not the work of an illiterate peasant, which it is claimed that Mohammed was, basically. So, there is this conundrum, somewhat similar to that surrounding Joseph Smith and the founding of the Mormon Church. Devout Mormons tend to only regard the Book of Mormon and the Bible to be the two books worthy of consideration, most everything else is just an abomination; which, when you consider the trash which constitutes popular literature; pornographic filth such as, Fifty Shades of Grey; a book which I discovered in a friend’s office and opened at random. I read three sentences and blushed, closing the book I remarked how disgusting it was and how poorly written were those collections of words. She had read that literature with some relish. Alas, there are a lot of people who tune into very low brow literary vibrations and hence their minds are generally filled with mush; ‘idle conversation’ which is one area I agree with Allah. He abhors it also. I’ve never been one for politically correct polite conversation about fluff, nonsense, and sophistry. Unfortunately we live amongst a lot of very ignorant people who are proud of their stupidity and relish watching very stupid people in sit coms and talk shows on the Tell Lie Vision. They laugh uproariously at the antics of morons. However, do not give up on all of them. Some can be woken up and one way to do it is to make copies of Down the Rabbit Hole and get them thinking about the dangerous MUSLIM INVASION. Get them to discuss what is coming down unless enough of us stop this horror coming at us thanks to the machinations of the Jewish entity, we are in big trouble.

Islam and how it is practiced in Islamic countries is a bit of a puzzle. On the one hand, Islam is very much against idolatry. Indeed, the depictions of gods, ancient histories, and so forth are not very much appreciated by Muslims, to wit the recent destruction of ancient artifacts in Aleppo by ISIS extremists. I am presently very uncomfortable because of the vulnerability of the national art museums of Europe because so many very retarded Muslim chimp hybrids have been let loose there and indeed, one has already tried to attack the Louvre. It was one of those creatures from sub Sahara Africa with likely an IQ of 45. Creatures like that, totally indoctrinated in the Koran, take things to extreme, which is not the impression I get from all Muslims. Albeit the Koran admonishes the death of unbelievers, not all Muslim people desire that end; likely remaining hopeful that the unbelievers will eventually become believers. When you look at videos of modern day Tehran, for example, there are movie theatres; indeed there is art and a modern people living in a very modern, western looking city. So, do some research and ask a few Muslims if they want to see you tortured and killed for being an unbeliever.

YOU CAN FIND MY BOOKS ON: AMAZON.CA + BARNES & NOBLE.

To be continued tomorrow.....