PENTAGON FAILS TO CAPTURE DATA ABOUT ALIEN ORBS

For Immediate Distribution - September 29, 1999

When scientists at the American Science Foundation were asked by a local computer company executive to analyze claims by a study team that some form of extraterrestrial life was using a "doorway" system of highly resonant energy to covertly study humanity, they at first were skeptical.

After five months of analysis of the data, the scientists asked to perform the analysis, are no longer skeptical.

Studies of the so-called Vortex in Wanaque, NJ, has authenticated that the "doorway system" exists, and that it provides an unknown species or several unknowns, to travel reasonably without observation, all over the surface of our world.

In Denver, Co., last week, nearly 600 Attendees of the Global Sciences Congress Annual Convention, had the chance to witness the existence of the Alien Observer Orbs when 15 or so were captured live on Digital Cameras and shown to the stunned audience. The rest of the conference turned into an Orb-fest, with the Orbs almost obediently lining up for pictures in lines waiting for waters, and in line ups among staff. The captured behavior was indicative of a human compatible intelligence, and a sense of humor, which even staged a scene reminiscent of a scene out of the movie Contact, as if to say that the Orb Portals are metaphoric to an interstellar worm hole transit system used by the Beings from the other side of the Portals.

The study has been documented by a rapidly organized study team, which has captured stereo-optic and infra red images of the beings using the "doorway" (called by the team "the Vortex") to enter our world, travel here observing us, and then leaving.

The technology at use is extremely stealthy, beyond anything in the US Pentagon's arsenal. And it hasn't escaped the Pentagon's attention, either: as the ASF Study Team (called TEAM ORB) observes the strange Vortex, and follows and films and catalogs the Orb-like evidence of the alien species travels around our planet, the Pentagon is also watching.

Several months ago, A study team set up by the Department of Defense, installed permanent installation of observation and monitoring equipment at the Vortex location, to collect images of the strange comings and goings of the beings using the Orb Doorway System. After only two weeks, the insides of the recording equipment were found to have been pluperized by Pentagon experts watching the Vortex and watching the American Science Foundations' TEAM ORB, but the equipment was unopened, and the Pentagon is at a loss to determine how their equipment was damaged only on its insides without being opened.

Pentagon and FBI personnel had little to say about the actions of the travelling Orb phenomena, other than to suggest that the 1 to 5 foot tall phenomena captured by TEAM ORB, were nothing but "pollen". A Member of Team Orb was heard to comment: "Sorry, but I left my Electron Microscope home." Apparently the Government finds this situation amusing, because it is powerless to stop the Orb Beings from visiting with private citizens in their homes and offices.

"The Beings trashed the Pentagon's equipment," said Team Orb members, "they were quite annoyed with us at first, because it looked like we inadvertantly caused the Pentagon and the NSA to bring in heavy equipment to study THEM, but now the Beings seem to have gotten over it. Apparently, the Aliens went up to the Pentagon's equipment installation and used some form of technology on it, to leave a message for the Department of Defense and the National Security Agency. They are very much against war and intrigue, these beings! They find our concept of Military very primitive."

TEAM ORB has recently received numerous offers of funding by high tech firms interested in receiving the benefit of the scientific studies of the Vortex and the Beings who use the Orb Doorway System to observe and study humanity.

"If TEAM ORB can produce enough information about how the Vortex Doorway System works, imagine the benefits," stated George Gemmiel, an AT&T Executive who was one of the several parties interested in the device and expressed interest to TEAM ORB. "I am keenly interested in the study, as we at AT&T were recently made aware of the Doorway, and have independently verified that the Orbs are real, are under intelligent control, and appears to be a form of technology. But whatever controls it does not appear to like us up there with our equipment, unlike how TEAM ORB is treated: their team members are welcomed by these objects everytime they visit. We hope to interest TEAM ORB in a technology exchange agreement."

I worked for AT&T in Piscataway as an End To End Project Manager (IT) consultant between 1999 and 2000. At that time, I came across this "E-GROUP posting. When I saw the name of the AT&T employee I was able to validate that George Gemmiel was in fact a BD/Marketing Manager for AT&T. I was able to accomplish this because we were both on the AT&T internal corporate email system at the time. There were also over 100,000 employees and contractors worldwide in this email database. So, at least from this perspective, I can safely validate that this one aspect of the posting was accurate. - Joseph Foster

David G., an executive at SAIC Bellcore, indicated that his firm was interested in the Technological Advantages offered by any remote alien species who might be visiting earth. "If we can conquer space-time, the way ACC's Jack Shulman has suggested the Orb Portals provide these beings, then we should be able to LEAP

BEYOND Einstein Relativity, to a new understanding of the Universe and how to Explore it, in real time, travelling beyond the Light Years, in seconds. Its quite exciting."

TEAM ORB had recently offered to take the Orbs and the beings using them on "field trips" to NASA, the US Government, and the Vatican, offers which resulted in interest, yet some trepidation. The Government offer caused the Pentagon to take up position near the Wanaque Vortex. NASA indicated that they had hired a director to look into it. TEAM ORB members responded with:

"Well, we have one consolation, if we do break the barriers down between us and these Alien Visitors, we can all be reassured at knowing that the first words the Aliens hear, will be: 'Hello, my name is Blumberg!'".

The American Science Foundation team has been highly successful in standing off all debunkers, by providing authentication of their film study method and by taking various members of the public to the Vortex where they are enabled to take their own photos of this remarkable find.

"Humanity may not be ready for this discovery," stated a TEAM ORB lead investigator, Bryan Williams, who was one of the original discoverers of the Vortex Doorway System. "But, apparently these astral alien beings, or whatever they are, are ready for Humanity. I think we have no option but to open up a relationship with them and educate ourselves as to who they are and what they want. It seems there is some kind of conflict going on between Aliens of one order and another order, which would look kind of like lizards and dragons to us, here on Earth, they are so Alien looking. This conflict threatens to invade our space-time. I think the Orb Beings are here to try to prepare us for the possibility of being drawn into a vast political conflict beyond our past experience, which may pop into our Solar System through one of these Interstellar, Interdimensional, Astral Doorways they use for faster than light or interdimensional travel. We need to all be very open minded, as they are obviously more advanced than we humans are."

"As to the Pentagon..." added ACC CEO, who has been providing some publicity support for TEAM ORB, and some limited sponsorship, "it seems to me their message to the Pentagon was - 'kids should not play with toys they don't fully understand'. This probably refers to the Pentagon's attempts to peek in at the Alien Travellers and Observe them Scientifically. The Pentagon should really consult with TEAM ORB directly, before messing. They're going to waste a ton of money, for no reason, doing it covertly, because their idea of 'covert' has the Orb Beings chuckling and holding back out and out laughter."

"I guess when your that advanced, a B2 looks like a balsa wood childs toy!"
